“Role Play on Working of an Ad Agency”

A Role Play on “Working of an Ad Agency” was conducted for TY BBA Marketing Specialisation students for two consecutive days on 28th & 29th November 2017 in Seminar Hall no. 2 of PIMSE building by Prof. JahanAara Pathan.

The primary objective of this role play was to create awareness amongst the marketing students as to how an ad agency works. Each participant worked in different capacities, which was later on interchanged with others the next day. This is just another example of her style of teaching-learning methodology. Management graduates tend to join this function; the skills required here include excellent people skills, good project management skills, and a sound knowledge of marketing strategy.

Account planning is a relatively more recent function. The role here is to essentially think on behalf of the client, and to prepare the agency itself for pitching to a new client. The skills called for include knowledge of market research techniques and consumer behaviour. Students got to learn all these varied functions of an ad agency.

“Role Play activity on Active Listening Skills” for FY BBA students

A Role Play activity on “Active Listening Skills” under Business Communication Skills for FY BBA students was conducted on 23rd September 2017 in M4 classroom between 9:10 to 10:00 am.

Active listening is a communication technique that is used in counselling, training, and conflict resolution. It requires that the listener fully concentrate, understand, respond and then remember what is being said. Active listening involves listening with all senses. As well as giving full attention to the speaker, it is important that the 'active listener' is also 'seen' to be listening - otherwise the speaker may conclude that what they are talking about is uninteresting to the listener. Interest can be conveyed to the speaker by using both verbal and non-verbal messages such as maintaining eye contact, nodding your head and smiling, agreeing by saying 'Yes' or simply 'Mmm hmm' to encourage them to continue. By providing this 'feedback' the person speaking will usually feel more at ease and therefore communicate more easily, openly and honestly.

Listening is the most fundamental component of interpersonal communication skills. It was a grand successful activity as to students could learn the objective of this activity.
